

A series of dialogues aimed at considering archaeology as an original perspective from which we can look at the social, economic and cultural complexities of our society. Distinguished Italian and British archaeologists will talk about the traces of our past and its heritage and how we can approach them today, thus offering a deep-time view of our era and, vice-versa, a contemporary view on the mechanisms that shaped our history.

Italian Cultural Institute
39, Belgrave Square
London SW1X 8NX
www.icilondon.esteri.it
Free admission
Registration required

archaeologytalks

1. Roman Imperialism and Europe

Massimo Osanna + Greg Woolf

Moderated by Andrew Gardner

Thursday 26th April

7pm

2. Archaeology and Localisms

Andrea Pessina + Mark Pearce

Moderated by Corinna Riva

Monday 21st May

7pm

3. Medieval Archaeology and Islam

Sauro Gelichi + Martin Carver

Moderated by Corisande Fenwick

Tuesday 30th October

7pm

The series is hosted by the Italian Cultural Institute in London, curated by UCL archaeologists Corinna Riva and Andrew Gardner, and supported by the Institute of Classical Studies, London, the Accordia Research Centre, the 'UCL-in-Rome' initiative, and the British School at Rome.